

Tribute to the ONPA Ladies on International Women's Day

Recognizing International Women's Day this weekend, the Public Auditor and fellow male colleagues paid tribute to the women in the Office of the National Public Auditor through messages of appreciation followed by a luncheon. The women of our office hold various roles and have made significant contributions to the function of the ONPA over the years until today.

The ladies who were treated to a special luncheon on this day to recognize their invaluable contributions to the office and society. It was a great time of bonding away from their office desks.

We wish all women in the FSM and around the world, Happy International Women's Day.
